SOVIET RUSH MORE TROOPS TO FRONTIERS

Troop-Trains At Every 45 Minutes.

MANCHUKUO FORCES AT HAILAR

Harbin, Yesterday.

Trains laden with Soviet troops are being rushed to the frontier regions of Western and Eastern Siberia, according to foreign travellers from Europe, who assert that troop-trains overtook them at regular intervals of 45 minutes.

At the same time, Manchukuo is reported to be concentrating troops at Hailar.

Meanwhile, the Soviet Consul-General here has lodged a fifth protest against the detention of the Chinese Eastern Railway officials, but the demand for their release is being ignored by Manchukuo.

Commerce and trade in Harbin continues to remain at a standstill. — Reuters, Pacific Service.

JAPANESE TROOPS CONCENTRATED IN MANCHURIA.

Tokyo, Yesterday.

It is reliably reported that troops are concentrating at Mukden, Changchun and Harbin, apparently as a precautionary measure, but ostensibly as preparatory to a bandit drive.

Throughout the week business in Harbin has been at a standstill, and there is a growing conviction in all circles that Manchukuo and the Soviet are heading towards a crisis of the first magnitude as a result of the controversy arising from the detention of the Russian officials of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Mr. Shih Liu-pen, of the Manchukuo Foreign Office blankly refuses to accept the repeated protests lodged by the Soviet Consul-General, M. Slavutsky. The situation has been aggravated during the week by the alleged crossing of the frontier of an armed Soviet force.

SOVIET BANISHES ALL GERMAN ENGINEERS

Vacancies To Be Filled By French Workmen

Berlin, Yesterday. The breach between the Soviet and Germany, accentuated by the expulsion of German journalists from Russia following the non-admittance of Soviet newspapermen to the Reichstag fire trial, has been widened by a new Soviet decree ordering all German engineers employed in the U.S.S.R. to leave the country forthwith. They will be replaced by French engineers. — Reuters.

REICHSTAG FIRE TRIAL SENSATION

Four Foreign Lawyers Banned From Court.

SEQUEL TO "SLANDEROUS" LETTER

Berlin, Yesterday.

Four foreign lawyers, Mr. Leo Gallagher, of the United States, M. Willard, of France, and M. M. Detcheff and Gregoroff, of Bulgaria, who are attending the Reichstag Fire Trial here, were today summoned to leave the Court by detectives, during a brief interval in the proceedings.

They were taken to an adjoining room and deprived of their entrance cards and later were conducted to the police station for examination.

This action is stated to be the sequel to a letter they had written to Dimitroff's counsel, who was appointed by the Court, urging him to protest against the continued exclusion of Dimitroff, who is charged with high treason from the Court.

The letter sought to justify Dimitroff's attitude towards German justice.

The President of the Court, Dr. Buenger, characterised the letter as a monstrous slander. — Reuters.

HITLER'S DRAMATIC MOVE

APPEALS TO WHOLE NATION

GENERAL ELECTION ON NOV. 11; REICHSTAG DISSOLVED

BERLIN, YESTERDAY.

THE GERMAN REICHSTAG HAS BEEN DISSOLVED BY A SPECIAL ORDER FROM PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG. THE NEW ELECTIONS WHICH ARE FIXED FOR NOVEMBER 11, WILL GIVE GERMAN ELECTORS AN OPPORTUNITY OF EXPRESSING THEIR VIEWS ON THE INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL POLICY OF THE NATION. GERMANY HAS SEVERED ALL CONNECTIONS WITH THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS AND THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in a manifesto to the German people, declares that Germany is most disappointed that despite all readiness to carry out her Disarmament, if necessary to the utmost, other Governments could not decide to fulfil the pledges signed by them in the Peace Treaty.

The German people and the Government are most humiliated by the deliberate refusal of real moral and actual equality for Germany after the Government of the Reich had declared itself, as a result of the equality promised on November 11, 1932, again ready to participate in the negotiation of the Disarmament Conference.

Official representatives of other States, in public speeches and in direct statements to foreign Ministers and to our delegates, have announced that at present Germany can no longer be granted this equality.

"As the German Government see in this action an unjustifiable and humiliating discrimination against the German people, it is not in a position to further participate in the negotiations as a second-class nation without rights."

"While the German Government re-announces its firm desire for peace, it declares with greatest regret that it must leave the Disarmament Conference in view of these humiliating and dishonouring demands, the manifesto continues.

"It will also announce its resignation from the League of Nations."

"The Government submits its decision, with its renewed affirmation of its policy of sincere desire for peace and understanding, to the judgment of the German people, and expects therefrom a manifestation of a similar desire of peace and understanding of a similar conception of honour and determination."

Chancellor Hitler concludes: "I am convinced that the whole nation, like one man, will support and confirm the decision which springs as much from love of our people and respect for its honour as also from the conviction that the final world of peace, which is so necessary for all, can only be reached when the conception of victor and vanquished is replaced by a bearable application of equal rights for all who live."

AMERICA'S POLICY OF PEACE.

No Territorial Ambitions, Declares President.

Washington, Yesterday.

The United States is overwhelmingly against engaging in war and has not sought to annex Canada, Mexico, Cuba, or any part thereof, declared President Roosevelt in a radio message yesterday from the New York Conference on Current Affairs.

The United States possesses no national desire for territorial expansion, and the threats to world peace came from people who still cherished imperialistic desires for expansion and domination, he said. Education in the ideals of peace was a vital factor in the fight against the present crisis in history. — Reuters.

The Arabs have called a general strike, and all Arab shops are closed.

The League Council have adopted a proposal to establish a body to deal with the question of German-Jewish refugees.

Chapter VIII. — THE COURTYARD.

(By GERALD BURRARD.)

THESE men were ordered with some others to go and slay or capture the Englishman who was sent to track us down. They have failed. The others died, but these four dared to return here, having failed in their mission. There is but one punishment. Is it just?"

A murmur went up from the on-lookers. "It is just."

So these were the four men who had escaped after their unsuccessful attack on the mission-station, and whom Geoffrey had pursued to the cave in the mountains. Truly their fate would have been happier had they been killed in the attack.

The guards seized the prisoners and pulled them towards four posts which Geoffrey had noticed in the centre of the courtyard, but to which he had not paid particular attention, so engrossed had he been in his wonderful surroundings. But the action of the guards made him look at the posts more carefully, and then he saw that they were stakes set upright in the ground, each about three feet high. Their ends were sharply pointed. These preparations could have only one meaning, and for a moment Geoffrey lost his self-control. In spite of himself his knees shook beneath him, while so great was his horror that he broke out into a profuse and sudden sweat.

The wretched men were to be impaled.

Geoffrey closed his eyes, but he could hear the prisoners being dragged towards the ghastly stakes. Their arms were bound behind their backs, and they never uttered a word.

Then there was another period of dead silence.

Geoffrey opened his eyes once more and saw that each of the four prisoners was standing beside a stake, and holding their tight were the guards, four guards to each prisoner.

"Let the punishment begin!" The "Tiger's" voice boomed out once more.

Geoffrey again closed his eyes. A few short days before he had been striving for these men's lives, but now he would gladly have fought any odds on their behalf. But he was bound and his jailers closed in on him and held him tight.

He could hear the sound of men struggling, and then clear above all else shriek upon piercing shriek rent the stillness of the Holy Mountain. The agony of the men was almost too appalling for contemplation, and here was Geoffrey Barracough, a British officer, forced to hear their piteous cries for mercy and their high-pitched, almost inhuman, yells of suffering.

Suddenly there was a thud within a few yards, and Geoffrey opened his eyes to see the cause, keeping his gaze well averted from the centre of the courtyard. The cruelty of the torture had been too much for one of the spectators, and he had fainted.

Geoffrey noted the diabolical grin of enjoyment on the faces of every Tibetan in his immediate neighbourhood, and realised how small was his chance of life and how utterly remote any hope of mercy.

Yet again the "Tiger's" voice sounded across the enclosure.

"The man is a coward. He is of no use to us. Let him die. Bring forth a yak's skin."

Now, the torture of the yak's skin is a Tibetan invention. The condemned man is sewn up as tightly as possible in the stretched skin of a freshly-killed yak. He is then left to lie in the full heat of the sun—and the sun has a very remarkable degree of power in Tibet, for the country is near the tropics and it is only the rarest air which causes the intense cold at nights—and as the skin dries so does it shrink, gradually, slowly, but wholly relentlessly, squeezing the man to death.

Geoffrey had heard of this method of treating malefactors, but he had never anticipated being present at such an operation.

Were these creatures human beings or were they fiends in human shape? Geoffrey almost cried aloud, so great was his mental anguish at the thought of Phyllis and her father being prisoners in their hands. When death came it would be a welcome release, but he feared it would be painfully slow in coming. The unconscious body of the Tibetan was carried out towards the centre of the courtyard close to those awful hunched-up figures, whose cries still rent the air.

Futile plans for escape kept passing through Geoffrey's brain as he clenched and unclenched the fingers of his bound hands and tightly closed his eyelids. Everything was hopeless. It was true that Sher Khan was still outside, but what could he do alone against this mob of devils? Death was the only way, and Geoffrey prayed that when his time came he would not disgrace his calling or his nationality by any loss of courage. He imagined that Phyllis was in reality a bait for himself, and he had wild ideas of declaring his personality so as to ensure her escape. But then he realised that she would have learnt too much, always supposing she had been brought to the temple, and that therefore the "Tiger" would never let her live. Again he broke out into a sweat at the thought.

The minutes passed in awful silence.

Soon a couple of men arrived carrying the skin of a newly-slayed yak. By this time the Tibetan had come to, and his horror when he realised his plight was too pitiable to see. He called for mercy, but he might as well have addressed the mountain itself for all the effect his entreaties had on his inhuman persecutors.

Phyllis Merriwell.

He was bound and flung upon the skin, which was quickly wrapped round him. In an incredibly short time it was sewn up tightly with thoughts of hide, until only his head appeared at one end. The skin was stretched so tight that every line of his body could be plainly traced. He was then flung into the sun and left.

The "Tiger" waved his hand, rose, and left the courtyard by a door behind him. He was immediately followed by the other twelve masked men, and on their departure, the whole armed assembly slowly began to leave by means of the doors which Geoffrey had noticed in the cliffs.

At last Geoffrey was left alone in the courtyard with his three Tibetan guards and Thompson's Tibetan servant, who had been responsible for his capture and subsequent treatment.

"Ah-ha, Hindu dog! Thou seest a little of the fate that is in store for thee. But be assured that the punishment meted out to those four cowards is nothing to what awaits thee should thou not speak when my master bids thee. Why, I have known a man linger on the stake for days, but when I begin to attend to thee, thou shalt pray for death every minute of every hour of every day for two weeks before the prayer is answered. And when it is, thine own mother will not recognise thy carcass, as being that of her son. Ah-ha!" And he laughed his devilish laugh, which chilled Geoffrey with fear.

"But stay here a while. Watch those four on the stake. See them writhe. Hear them groan. It is a funny sight. In India you do not see such amusements, hey? And that squeamish onlooker. He will begin to kick and call after a bit. Do not go yet, but stay and watch the fun. See how kind I am that I should think of thy amusements. But after all, my master is every hospitable, and I must see to the

Mainly For Women

High Neck Mode For Autumn

Dresses Built Up To The Throat.

AMAZING FABRICS

AN outstanding characteristic of the incoming mode is the high neck. Dresses are built right up to the throat; adroit handling often makes it possible to leave them open if it is more becoming.

There are large velvet bows or ascot ties on crepe and woollen frocks; lace and flit collars mount from chemise-like fronts; white bengaline makes collarettes that stand out like epaulettes for width; cat's whiskers bows tuck close under the chin.

It would seem as though the makers of fabrics had taken very special pains to produce amazing results. Much more will be said about materials with the advancing season.

For the moment attention must be called to the importance of ribbed fabrics. They range from woollens used for sports and street wear, to bengalines seen in afternoon things and chiffons in which tucks are woven for softly feminine evening fashions.

Replenishing Your Wardrobe

Dressing According To Requirements.

WHEN you are replenishing your wardrobe you should first consider your position in life and what type of costume the great number of hours of your day calls for. The business woman, for instance, would hardly be practical if she were to purchase six evening gowns and one business frock. She must look smart in more or less tailored clothes nine or ten hours out of every day in the week. Therefore most of her energy should be directed to the selecting of costumes which can be worn during the daytime hours.

On the other hand the lady of leisure will find her evening hours the more demanding. She will be able to get along with few daytime dresses, but her evening wardrobe will have to be complete.

Beauty After The Summer

Bleaching Baths Are Necessary.

LONDON SPECIALIST'S METHOD

THE yellow tinge that sunburn assumes when the summer is over is sending many women just now to their favourite beauty specialists for its speed removal.

One specialist in Regent-street promises her clients that they will be three shades lighter than before if they put aside an hour for a new face pack that cleanses, bleaches and invigorates the skin.

Women who expect to sleep and relax in the chaise-longue of a treatment cubicle are warned that this is a very stimulating treatment, and that sleep will be impossible. After the face has been cleansed with a clear lemon cream, the pack is applied to the face, left on for half an hour, then taken off with warm water, and a powder lotion and powder make-up applied.

Young women will find that one of these packs will do all that is necessary towards bleaching the face, while the older woman needs two or three, with about a week in between.

A Bleach Is Necessary. When sunburn has been banished over the body, a bleach must be applied, as evening dress fashions may otherwise reveal a forgotten area of sun-tanned black. Paraffin wax poured over the body and allowed to remain in a hardened case makes a bleaching bath in another London beauty salon.

Women are booking these while still at the seaside, since the wax bath for the body takes about 2½ hours, and a more refined pink wax bleach mask for the face takes another hour to do its work. Massage is included.

Herbs For Beauty

HERBS are used a great deal in modern beauty culture. Special herbs are gathered to make a pack for puffy eyelids. This pack looks like a fancy pair of spectacles.

Individuality In Dress

GOOD taste is the first essential in choosing a wardrobe, but it is no more important than individuality.

You may feel that you have chosen a, let us say, daytime dress which is just the right type. It is subdued in colour, the line is the approved line for frocks of its kind, but when you put it on and walk out into the world, you do not feel important.

The reason for this is because you have failed to consider your own personality. "What does this dress do for me?" is a question every woman should ask herself when she tries on a new frock and walks up to the long mirror in the dress establishment.

If it does not make her beam, then it is not for her. It fails to bring out her personality. It lacks individuality.

Brilliant Autumn Colours

Browns Hold Sway In Day Time.

THE spectroscopic of Autumn colour is brilliant. Royal blue is a high-style note for evening; the petunia, pansy, fuchsia shades are strongly to the fore; reds with a leaning toward coral and lacquered tones are very smart.

Browns, woodsy, russet browns, are strong for day-time, and the mellow tones are well thought of for evening; greens hold their usual place, but they are of the bronze tones.

In short, the "best" colours are on the off shades, according to an expert. They are soft and intriguing.

Led 18-14 on the 16th and a beautiful draw by Brown laid the foundations for Hong Kong's five which proved the turning point of the game. On this head U. M. Omar, the Colony skip, was given a great ovation when he increased the 3-shot lay to five.

R. Hall played well at No. 1 where he was seen to better advantage than W. A. Bailey. B. W. Bradbury, though not displaying his best form, was superior to Sande Malcolm, while J. C. A very large crowd witnessed the game, among those present being H. E. The Governor, Sir William Peel, K.B.E., K.C.M.G., H.E. the G.O.C., Major General O. C. Borrett, C.B., C.M.G., C.B.E., D.S.O., the Hon. Mr. B. D. C. Wolfe, C.M.G., Inspector General of Police, Mrs. Wolfe and Miss Wolfe, Mr. A. F. Shields, Mrs. Shields and Miss Varly, Mr. J. At the conclusion of the match, the Governor shook hands with both teams and officials, and congratulated the winners on their victory, and the losers on their plucky display. His Excellency remarked that, although he had played bowls some thirty years ago, it was not until he came to the Colony that he realised there was so much in the game.

H.K. Ladies' Hockey Trial

Miss B. Hance Gives Fine Display.

HALF BACKS SHOW GOOD FORM AT SOOKUNPOO

The brilliant play of the half-backs of both sides featured the Hong Kong Ladies' Hockey Club's trial match on the Military ground, Sookunpoo, yesterday.

Some excellent talent was on view, the outstanding "find" being Miss B. Hance, who gave a superb exhibition at left half for the Whites.

Her spilling work was a feature of the play while her feeding of the forwards was also of a high standard.

Mrs. Selby (nee Edna Blackburn) has improved considerably since last year and her display on the left wing for Colours should secure her a place in the first eleven. Mrs. Bishop, on the right wing for Colours, was one of the most dangerous forwards on the field, her excellent stickwork combined with her speed should enable her to get a place in the first team.

Both centre halves, Miss B. Pope and Miss H. Lowe were outstanding, the former being slightly the better.

Miss J. Churchill, (2) Miss E. Bonnar (2) and Miss J. Dalziel were the best forward trio on view. They combined very effectively to score the five goals against the Colours.

The following were the teams:—Whites:—B. White, M. King, and B. Franklin; D. Robertson, H. Lowe and B. Hance; E. Bell, J. Dalziel, E. Bonnar, J. Churchill and R. King. Colours:—M. Bird, Mrs. Westlake and P. Thorpe; J. White, B. Pope and S. Owen; Hughes, M. Bishop, M. Rattey, S. Adams, B. Laing and E. Selby.

CHAMPION SKATER.

Death From Mysterious Muscular Disease.

Toronto, Sept. 20.

Miss Jean Wilson, twenty-three, champion speed skater of Canada, and holder of North American titles over five distances, has died here from a mysterious muscular disease.

She developed the disease shortly after her return from the Olympic Winter Games at Lake Placid last year, when she won the five hundred metres speed-skating demonstration race for women in fifty-eight seconds.

WILLIAMS AND MINU SHINE IN CRICKET TRIAL

Sparkling Innings By Army Player.

HAYWARD PLAYS FINE CAPTAIN'S KNOCK

Teddy Fincher's Catch

Capt. P. Williams and A. R. Minu are almost certain for the Triangular Interport Cricket series next month against Shanghai and Malaya as the result of their performances in the first Interport Trial at the H.K.C.C. yesterday.

Williams batted with delightful freedom for his 50, which he reached without giving a chance. In a very fine aggressive knock, were seven boundaries, and a six off A. H. Madar. When he retired, after giving Madar a hard chance which went unaccepted, he had scored 50 out of 73.

Though securing only two of the eight wickets that fell Minu was seen at his best. He had Tom Hayward, who played a grand captain's innings until he was run out, in difficulties with every ball of one over. Teddy Fincher was dropped off his bowling by E. R. Duckitt at square leg when he had scored only four. Minu scored six runs—in one hit off Hamilton.

Though Frank Goodwin, the K.C.C. skipper, secured 5 wickets for 20 runs, he was not as impressive as F. D. Pereira, who failed to take a wicket. C. C. Garthwaite bowled extraordinarily well in his opening spell of three overs during which period he took two wickets without conceding a run.

Hayward and I. McInnes were associated in a sixth wicket partnership which realised 27 runs in 70 minutes after the first five wickets had fallen for 27 runs. Hayward was dismissed when McInnes foolishly sent him back after Ernie Fincher had brilliantly fielded a shot at mid-off. Another run-out occurred when E. R. Duckitt, who looked like making a big score, ran himself out.

Teddy Fincher brought off one of the finest catches seen on the ground when he sent back P. A. Munn as the result of a high and hard left-handed catch in the gully.

Teddy Fincher, Tam Pearce and A. H. Madar all had the misfortune to play balls on to their wickets.

SAINTS BEAT NAVY BY ODD GOAL

BORDERERS TROUNCE THE ATHLETIC 5-1

YOUNG INDIANS BEAT NAVY IN DAY OF SURPRISES

ST. JOSEPH'S triumphed over the Navy; the Lincolns scored five times without reply against the Borderers, last year's runners-up, to take the lead in the premier league table; the Borderers beat the Chinese Athletic, Second Division champions, by 5 goals to 1; and the Young Indians, newcomers to the League, registered their first win at the expense of the Navy. These were the four sensations recorded in yesterday's local league football programme.

Tate of the Lincolns headed the goal-scorers with four goals in a programme which produced 71 goals in the twelve games.

FIRST DIVISION.

Lincolns Go Nap Against S.W.B.

NEW CENTRE SCORES THREE GOOD GOALS.

The clash between the Borderers and the Lincolns at Sookunpoo provided a surprise when the Lincolns won by five clear goals. The Borderers were expected to win, but after a promising opening the game developed into a battle between the Lincolns' attack and the Borderers' defence.

The early goals, one a penalty, proved too big a handicap for the Borderers to overcome, and, although they missed chances, their forwards did not combine effectively enough to score goals. The game started off at a terrific pace, both sides playing splendid football, but as soon as the pace slackened the Lincolns definitely secured the upper hand.

The Borderers were quite as good in midfield, but their forwards, bunched off the ball by determined halves, gave a very poor display. Cork, the Lincolns' pivot, played a bustling game, and Hazelwood was completely subdued. Dudley and Bett, splendid in defence, were, however, both guilty of neglecting their wing forwards.

Heath Good Between Posts

Heath made many fine clearances, mainly by rushing out to clear at the right moment. The shot he had to deal with were very few, for he was well covered by Turner and Roden.

Ridley was again the outstanding forward on the field, drawing the defence, making openings and showing excellent speed and ball control. Higgins, brought in at centre, played an ideal bustling game. Lying well up the field, he worried Smith throughout and scored two snap goals.

Morrison was outstanding for the Borderers. He broke up many threatening attacks and towards the end earned rounds of applause by time and again coming through a bunch of Lincolns forwards with the ball at his feet. Mullane played quite well, but Smith was early put off his game by the aggressive Higgins. Podmore was the best of the halves and Duncan the most dangerous forward.

Certain Goal Saved.

Heath saved a certain goal when he dived at the feet of Jones early in the game, and at the other end Mullane was penalised for pushing Hoggard's corner of the bottom right hand ing from the resultant penalty. After 20 minutes the Lincolns had no earthly chance of stopping

The following are the probable teams for the game which starts at 4.30 p.m.:

Athletic:—Li Kwok-ki; Lo Hong-chong, Wong Sik-ping; To Ho-hung, Li Kwok-chiu, In Pang-fai; Tang Kwong-sun, Au Kim-fung, Ho Kar-keun, Au Ping-ming and Fung King-yu.

undoubtedly saved them from a heavier defeat. The second half saw the Saints set up attack after attack, but Woodman, smothered, punched, and kicked to stop the piling on of goals.

An exhibition of first class dribbling was given by Leonard. On two occasions he worked his way through the Navy defence from the half way line only to put the ball straight into Woodman's hands and just outside the upright.

Gosano and Rocha scored for the Saints, and Burnage for the Navy.

St. Joseph's:—Marques; Gomez, A. Gosano; Marques, Costa, Fernandes; Lawrence, B. Gosano, Leonard, Rocha and Sahban.

Navy:—Woodman; James, West; Purkins, Chamberlain, McGuire; Fairless, Goodrich, Elsworth, Barnett and Burnage.

Sound Administration.

THE outstanding fact concerning the Budget Debate at the Legislative Council meeting on Thursday is that the Colony has every reason to be satisfied with its Government. Little quarrel can be found with the administration, and reassuring official replies were forthcoming on most of the legitimate complaints raised. Felicitation must, of course, be tempered with reserve until it is seen that the Government's promises are fully carried out, particularly on such vital issues as the bus services and the Central British School. The Budget reveals a satisfactory state of affairs, and the Colony's finances are not only sound but, despite the period of economic adversity, a progressive and enterprising programme of Public Works is projected. The big decline in the Colony's import and export trade necessitates administrative caution—and the keynote of the Budget is caution. It is necessary to emphasise the brighter aspects of the Budget because the sombre tone of most of Thursday's speeches may cause alarm which is not yet justified. No effort should be made to avoid facts but some of the speakers, both unofficial and official, were unnecessarily dismal, and tended to take the wrong perspective of the present position. Unduly pessimistic forecasts and constantly repeated warnings will destroy public confidence—and, as it has already been demonstrated in other parts of the world, lack of confidence is just as big a factor as economic conditions in creating depressions of a prolonged and severe character. Even now investors are demanding an exaggerated amount of security before advancing capital, despite the fact that the Colony is glutted with money, bank deposits having been so large during recent years that depositors are fortunate to secure even a 1 per cent. rate of interest. All who are concerned are fully aware of the state of trade, and reiteration will serve little purpose but to create false impressions. It was a relief, after perusal of some of the speeches to note the quiet note of optimism struck by the Hon. Mr. Kotewall, and to a lesser degree, His Excellency the Governor.

A pleasing feature of the Debate was the constructive criticism advanced by the Unofficials. The Senior Member, Sir Henry Pollock, was particularly trenchant in his condemnation of the delay in the building of the new Central British School. The present situation is, as he put it, disgraceful, and the official reply did not entirely convince. This matter constitutes a blemish on the Government's record and it is rather surprising that stimulation is still required for a speedy remedy. In view of the comments on the increasing cost of Government, Sir Henry's submission that two new solicitors should be engaged at once for the Legal Departments is rather interesting. His comment on the opium issue, as contrasting idealism with practicability, is also worthy of note. Sir Henry said: "Whilst fully recognising the good intentions of those who think they can succeed in prohibiting the smoking of opium, we regret that, with our long experience of this Colony, we consider that such an aim is a hopeless one." The senior Unofficial raised many excellent points and most of his observations were shrewd and timely, but he erred in joining the chorus who insist on describing the Budget as "colourless." The term is misused, and we repeat our former assertion that the Budget may lack colour in that policy is sound rather than sensational, but it affords refreshing and stimulating reading. The Chinese representatives were mainly concerned about the Assessment Tax. Whatever the solution of this complex problem there should not exist such an amazing discrepancy in the Chinese and official viewpoints as revealed on Thursday, and it is to be trusted that a better understanding can be arrived at in the near future. His Excellency's speech was extremely clear and concise, and in complimenting the administration it is appropriate to pay tribute to its head. Sir William Peel is a Governor who manifests enthusiastic interest in all phases of the Colony's activities, and his ability and sound judgment are reflected in the Budget. Fully advised on all local problems, His Excellency gains his knowledge at first hand, and it is no exaggeration to state that on many matters he is better informed than the various heads of the Departments concerned. He confessed to a measure of disappointment in the Budget but there is comfort in the fact that he has supervised a production which would be envied by most of his contemporaries, whether Governors or Financial Ministers.

BETTER PRISONS
FOR TURKEYIsland Penitentiary
Planned.

"SPEEDING-UP" JUSTICE

Isanbul.
Sarajoglu Chukry Bey, the new Turkish Minister of Justice, is planning a vast reorganisation of the prison system.

Large, modern prisons, modelled on Italian lines, will be built. Places like mosques and monasteries, which are at present being used as prisons, will be evacuated.

Prisoners will be classified according to their crimes. Children will be sent to houses of detention and not kept with old criminals. Persons convicted on minor charges, will be made to work on the roads and on the railways.

A penitentiary will be established on the island of Imrali in the Sea of Marmara. Some prisoners undergoing life sentences will be sent to this penitentiary, but other categories who have shown good conduct, will also be sent.

The latter will be allowed to take their families and all the inmates of this penitentiary will be allowed to work and move about the island.

The Minister of Justice also intends to speed up the administration of justice. At present, trials often take many months, even years, this reform is long overdue.—Router.

Divorce Statistics.

There are over 150 fewer divorces cases down for hearing at the Law Courts during the Michaelmas Sittings, which start on October 2, than in the corresponding period last year. The total is 978.

This figure does not represent an actual decrease in the number of persons seeking divorce.

Several hundred petitions which were not set down in time for inclusion in next term's list are, on the files at Somerset House.

In the list, it must be remembered, closed a fortnight earlier this year owing to the shortening of the Long Vacation.

A Supplementary List.

It is expected that a supplementary list, containing over 200 undefended petitions, will be issued early in November, which will make the total for the term one of the highest on record.

Women petitioners outnumbered by nearly three to one in the undefended causes down for hearing.

In the list of actions for trial with common juries 43 out of a total of 46 petitions are by men, and in the majority of these cases the husbands are claiming damages against correspondents. This list contains 14 more cases than last year's list for the same term.

London Offers.

As one of the most sought after directors in Europe, Mr. Rene Clair's experience must be unique. Hollywood has been vainly bidding for his services for at least two years, and so, quite recently, has London.

Mr. Irving Thalberg hopes that either Clair or Lubitch will direct Maurice Chevalier in "The Merry Widow."

Mr. Clair once said that nothing would persuade him to work in America unless he was given a free hand. At present his price is too high for London and his brow is too high for America.

Tube Tragedies.

The number of people who have either thrown themselves or fallen under London Tube trains so far this year amounts to 30. This is a much higher figure than the total for last year.

The dislocation of the whole traffic system by such tragedies is one of the most serious problems now facing the London Passenger Transport Board.

The question of how to prevent these immolation does not solely concern the unfortunate victims, though no sane person would choose a method of suicide which may easily result not in immediate death but in agonising mutilation.

Traffic Dislocation.

Twenty-five hours of total stoppage have been caused this year by Tube station tragedies. Curiously enough, the majority of suicides occur during the rush hours. Recent extensions of the Tubes have made the congestion caused by any stoppage for more serious than it used to be, and a fatality at any central station may cause delay along the whole line.

The tendency to delay is much greater on the Tubes than on the other railways owing to the restricted space available for rescue work.

The L. P. T. B. are already constructing "walks" under the line at their new stations for emergency use, and experiments are being made with different types of cowcatchers, though none has so far been evolved which will do its work efficiently and at the same time avoid interference with the system of trip signals on the rails.

Lord, High Almoner.

The post of Lord High Almoner to the King, to which the Archbishop of Canterbury has just been appointed in succession to the late Dean of Wells, is one of the most ancient and least onerous of all court honours.

Its only duties now consist of distributing Maundy money to the poor on the Thursday before Eastor and preaching in the Chapel Royal, St. James's, on the principal church festivals.

In the middle ages the Lord High Almoner received and distributed the property of suicides and all deadlands, or chattels forfeited to the King because they had caused the death of a subject. A horse and cart, which had run over and killed a pedestrian, for example, became a deadland.

A Roosevelt in London.

Unobtrusive, unobspired, a Roosevelt has been spending 10 days in London. He has now sailed for the United States.

He is Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, eldest son of the famous "Teddy" and ex-Governor-General of the Philippines.

When Mr. Franklin Roosevelt came into power Colonel Theodore, who is a Republican, resigned. Since his resignation he has been travelling home by the slowest and most adventurous route possible.

He has revisited the scene of a former shooting expedition in Central Asia. He has sauntered through Beluchistan, Persia, and Asia Minor, practising the Roosevelt gospel of physical fitness. Even in London he did his daily "jinks" and swam every day in the baths of a well-known club.

Augustus John's Travels.

Mr. Augustus John has just returned to London from Venice, where he has been painting a portrait of Lady Melchett. He intends to spend the rest of the summer at Fryern Court, his Elizabethan farmhouse in Hampshire.

Although he was born at the unromantic town of Tenby, Mr. John has probably spent more time abroad than any other famous English artist. Marfiquas, at the mouth of the Rhone, is his chief haunt, but every year he travels on a busman's holiday. He started his well-known portrait of Lord Abernethy in Berlin; he has painted elms on the Riviera and in New York; he knows Spain intimately.

Italy, however, he has visited only once before, and it has unpleasant memories for him. On his last journey, to Naples, eight years ago he was robbed on the train of his wallet and over £80.

A King in Soho.

St. Anne's Church, Soho, is undergoing external restoration of a very cheerful type. The walls are painted, the clock in a vivid green and the recently gilded weather-vane glistens in the autumn sunshine.

Only a few weeks ago a new memorial window was dedicated, representing the Virgin returning to the mother-church, a reference to the closing of the church of St. Mary the Virgin, Charing Cross-road, which was a chapel-of-ease.

St. Anne's is the only London church in which a foreign potentate is buried. But not a very potent one—Theodore, King of Corsica.

This unfortunate adventurer came to London in 1766 in search of funds, was imprisoned for debt, and would have been buried as a pauper had not a tradesman in Old Compton-street near by declared that he would pay the funeral expenses of a king.

The Dog Days.

This month will see at any rate the beginning of a return to the normal in the neighbourhood of Pall Mall and St. James's-street.

Several clubs, clean and repainted, will welcome back their own members, though the game of "general post" is not quite over, for the Athenaeum, the United Service, and part of the Reform are still housed at the Union, and the Garrick also has its guests. Two of the dance clubs are reopening.

At no time this summer of heat waves have there been fewer than 17 theatres open, and there are now 20 in central London alone.

Yet in pre-war and pre-cinema days London rarely had more than half-a-dozen theatre open in the "dog days."

Christianity Is Basis Of Progress Lessons From The Greatest Teacher Of Men

GOD'S STANDARD OF ETHICS

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

IN the last two articles on "Christ as the World Magnet," we have thought of Him as the greatest Example of humility the world has ever known, and as the great Exponent of the open-air life, with all that fact implies in the way of health and bodily strength. Today we pass on to think of Him as the great Teacher of men, the Founder of a new and great ethical system.

He was born into a world full of religions, but the ethical cults of Greece and Rome had left men strangely unsatisfied, while the legal system of the Jews had become a burden too heavy for them to bear. The truth of the matter was, that the old Gods were played out. The priests smiled to themselves as they offered the sacrifices in the Temples. The people had at last awakened to the fact that the gods they worshipped were no better than themselves. Steeped in the lore of their mythology, they had found out the very human weaknesses of those who were supposed to be divine.

They knew that the feet of Apollo were as swift as the wings of the morning, but they learned that his heart was cruel and callous. They knew that though Venus called to men when the evening shadows fell, to an easy heaven and a sense of forgetfulness, the price she called from those who worshipped her, was often more than a man could afford to pay.

Coming of the Messiah

They realised that too often the noise and blood-choked voice of Mars rang out across the world, calling the nations out to war, and that the Father of the Gods himself was too fond of the daughters of men.

Into a world sick and tired of the worship of such gods as these, at the very abyss of the world's despair, when the old philosophers had openly confessed that the heavens were empty of the Gods, and they knew not where to turn for help and consolation, suddenly out of a carpenter's shop at Nazareth, of the despised race of the Jews, came One with a new and startling message, completely different from any other the world had ever known, which gave them a new inspiration and fresh courage to face life and—for the first time in history—a new hope beyond the grave.

He challenged the world of His day, as He has challenged the world of every generation, to reconstruct their ideals and pre-conceived values, their fundamental conception of God Himself, and their personal relationship with Him and their fellow-men.

Banished Fear of God

The Incarnation was God's way of showing us Himself. Christ walked this earth at first without people realizing His divinity. He did not publish the creeds and compel men by force to accept them. He just went about doing good, giving Himself in simple service for others without parade or ostentation, until men by His very life were compelled to believe His divinity. In the spreading of Christianity to-day we lose sight, sometimes, of this method of approach.

Above all else, He changed all human conceptions of God. Along the centuries men had feared Him, regarded Him as a Judge who had to be appeased by the sacrifice of bulls and of goats, whose ever-impending wrath had by some means to be propitiated. He altered all that. He invited bewildered humanity to stand upright and look at God face to face, to claim the Lord of Creation as their Father. It is the basis of all revolt, all democracy. For if God is the Father of all men, then all are His children, and the commonest is as precious as a king. We are bound together as one great family, and what concerns one member of that family very vitally concerns all.

One nation cannot stand aloof from the misfortunes of another, whatever the colour of their skins may be. The shelters for the street-sleepers in Hong Kong is of as much importance in His sight as the

Set Fine Example

He never asked men to do what He was not willing to do Himself—the very essence of leadership. He promised, in that following, no easy pathway, no bed of roses, but men knew that in the heart of the great Teacher was a scorn of ease, and a thirst for reality. He knew our strength as well as our weaknesses.

His religion is not for men alone. It appeals alike to the gentler sex. His life in many respects was not unlike that of a woman. Like her's burden too heavy for them to bear. The truth of the matter was, that the old Gods were played out. The priests smiled to themselves as they offered the sacrifices in the Temples. The people had at last awakened to the fact that the gods they worshipped were no better than themselves. Steeped in the lore of their mythology, they had found out the very human weaknesses of those who were supposed to be divine.

They knew that the feet of Apollo were as swift as the wings of the morning, but they learned that his heart was cruel and callous. They knew that though Venus called to men when the evening shadows fell, to an easy heaven and a sense of forgetfulness, the price she called from those who worshipped her, was often more than a man could afford to pay.

A Friend to All

The world of His day had no time or place for the aged, the infirm, the leper and the outcast. He made it very clear that they mattered very much to Him. He spent His life of ministry amongst them, healing, lifting them up, turning them into decent members of society. They knew that in Him they had a friend, where before they had been friendless, a friend who never changes, whose love would never die.

Everyone with whom He came into contact recognized the supreme authority with which He always spoke. He told them that His words would never pass away. Nineteen centuries have rolled along, but they still remain, and even His bitterest enemies have always been compelled to admit that His standard of ethics, the plan which He laid down for men to follow, stands unique—that if only it were given a fair trial, it would revolutionise the world. Slowly but surely, His Spirit has spread across the ages. Few of us would care to live where His influence is unknown. Wherever there is Christianity there is enlightenment and progress.

"By their fruits ye shall know them," were His words, and though His followers have let Him down again and again, His life stands supreme, and on that life, in all its simple grandeur He stakes His claim. Christianity in one sentence is following Christ. When the world does that, then, and only then, will there come the peace that passes understanding.

NOVELTY IN GOING-AWAY COSTUMES

Miss Audrey Margaret Sykes, who yesterday morning became the bride of Mr. C. B. Easterbrook at St. Andrew's Church, Kowloon, may claim to be the originator of a really new style in going-away costumes, hers consisting of white shorts and a shirt, very suitable for the honeymoon, which is to be spent on a yachting cruise.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Walton Rogers, Mr. R. Baldwin presiding at the organ. The bride was given away by her father, while Mr. C. F. Wool, a colleague of the bridegroom, performed the duties of best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Sykes of Wakefield, Yorks, both of whom were present at the wedding. The bridegroom, who is a member of the staff of the China Light and Power Company, is very well-known in local sporting circles. He is popular in rowing circles, having for many years represented the Royal Hong Kong Yacht Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Easterbrook left on their honeymoon trip shortly after the ceremony.

A Meeting of the General Committee of the Kowloon Residents' Association took place on Thursday evening in St. Andrew's Church Hall, Kowloon.

There were present Mr. C. E. Torry, (President), Mr. L. D. Almada e Castro (Vice-President), Mr. R. P. Phillips (Hon. Treasurer), Rev. W. Walton Rogers, Messrs. F. C. Mow Fung, F. H. Crapnell, H. F. The Hon. Secretary, Mr. J. H. Shaw, and Mr. E. Cock sent apologies for their absence.

Members of Committee learned with satisfaction that the Government Draft Estimates for 1934 contained provision for the erection of a Typhoon Signal in Kowloon City District, and an enlarged Post Office in Kowloon. It was decided to enquire from Government on what site it was proposed to erect the signal.

A lengthy reply from Government on the subject of the disposal of rubbish was read. It was stated that as incinerators would be too costly, refuse would still have to be dumped. The Estimates for 1934 made provision for commencing work on a dumping ground at Kun Tong.

The reply further stated that a new system of dumping from Sanitary Department barges had been instituted which it was hoped would prevent the washing up of refuse on benches on the Western side of the Peninsula.

A comprehensive report from the appropriate sub-committee appointed to enquire into conditions at the Kwong Wah Hospital was read and adopted. It was agreed to send same to the Directors of the Hospital and to also send a copy to the Secretary for Chinese Affairs.

The Members of Committee learned with regret from Government that funds would not be available for the provision of a Public Dispensary in Taim Sha Tsui. The matter was left in abeyance pending information as to the source of funds concerning the existing Public Dispensaries.

Further complaints having been received regarding the unsatisfactory bus service in Kowloon, and previous communications with the Bus Company and Police Department having been reviewed, it was decided to form a special sub-committee consisting of Lt.-Col. E. D. Matthews, Mr. Li Chor Chi and Mr. D. W. Manton to collect complaints and to endeavour to secure direct action in the matter of improving the service.

UNDESIRABLE ALIEN FINED $50.

Persian Nationality Claim By Russian.

NO VALID PASSPORT IN HIS POSSESSION

Prosecuting a Russian, Vladimir Tagy-Ogly, who claimed Persian nationality, with entering the Colony without a valid passport, Mr. L. H. V. Booth, Assistant Director of Criminal Intelligence, told the Magistrate at Central Police Court yesterday that the defendant knew that he was not allowed in Hong Kong and had been sent away two months ago.

He asked the Court to make an order for expulsion and to impose a penalty.

Mr. Balfour, the Magistrate, fined the defendant $50 and ordered him to leave the Colony.

The defendant was arrested yesterday morning as an undesirable alien at the Police Station. It was found that his Chinese visa had expired.

Tagy-Ogly said that he had just arrived from Macao to meet a friend from Swatow on the "Yan On". He did not know that his visa, which he had obtained from the Chinese Public Safety Bureau, Shanghai, had expired, because it was written in Chinese. He was awaiting his national passport, which he had sent to Tokyo for renewal.

PETROL ECONOMY COMPETITION

Ford Agents Stage Trials At Kowloon.

26 LOCAL MOTORISTS COMPETE

Twenty-six Ford car-owners took part in the Ford Petrol Economy Competition which was staged by Messrs. Wallace Harper and Company, the local Ford Agents, at Kowloon yesterday afternoon.

Mr. J. D. Lloyd won the competition for the larger "V8" Ford models, covering 37.4 miles to the gallon, with Captain J. A. Peterson, second, covering 29.71 miles to the gallon.

In the class for Baby Fords Mr. Ng Chiu-yan took first prize by covering 59.43 miles to the gallon, with Mr. T. Young, covering 54.74 miles to a gallon, second.

The cars competing in the test had their petrol tanks drained at the Company's Service Station, Kowloon, and replenished with three gallons in the case of the "V8" Fords and two gallons for the Baby Fords. Mr. C. Dodson, an official of the Hong Kong Automobile Association, sealed each of the tanks after they had received their petrol supply.

The long procession of cars then made a complete circuit of the New Territory, returning to the Service Station, a distance of approximately 52 miles.

The seals were then broken by Mr. Dodson and the contents of the petrol tank drained and measured.

At the conclusion of the prizes were presented to the winning competitors, before a large gathering of Ford owners and friends. The prizes were donated by The Asiatic Petroleum Company, The Dunlop Rubber Company, Messrs. Melchers (Goodrich Tyres), Messrs. Carlowitz and Company (Continental Tyres) and The Sincere Company.

The following owners competed in the test:

"V8" Ford: Messrs. C. C. Berghoe, A. N. Betts, C. Crofton, Kenneth Chan, G. Forder, G. Farnestock, P. M. Hodgson, Dr. Li Shu Kee, C. Little, J. D. Lloyd, J. W. H. Lo, Dr. J. B. Mackie, Maclesoff, J. Panizzi, Captain J. A. Peterson, R. R. Roxborough, Inspector A. W. Smith, P. A. Silva, M. A. Xavier and E. Nettland. Baby Fords: Miss A. Chan, Messrs. Chan, Fu-cheung, Ng Chiu-yan, U. Man Kit, T. Young, and Dr. Mok Hing-fai.

RESULTS

The following were the results of the competitions in the V-8 Class and the Baby Ford Class:—"V8"—1, Mr. J. D. Lloyd, 37.4 miles to the gallon (Silver Cocktail Set); 2, Captain J. A. Peterson, 29.71 miles to the gallon (Attwater-Kent Radio Set).

Baby Ford:—1, Mr. Ng Chiu-yan, 59.43 miles to the gallon (Silver Cake Dish); 2, Mr. T. Young, 54.74 miles to the gallon (Silver Sweet Dish).

Mr. C. M. Mannara, Vice-President of the Hong Kong Automobile Association, and the Rev. G. E. S. Updell, past Secretary, were among the prominent spectators.

LADY OXFORD'S MEMORIES PIQUANT SKETCHES OF POLITICAL FIGURES IN TWO DECADES

(By J. B. Firth.)

"MY dear Margaret," Dr. Jowett War Minister, because he lacked the necessary qualities of resourcefulness, decision, and drive. That does not prevent Lady Oxford from de-clarating that these very qualities were pre-eminently his:

"Lady Oxford" has taken that counsel so completely to heart that she even writes for "the skippers," and, entering into their spirit, "jumps from event to event, place to person and topic to topic in the hope that what she writes 'may interest them.'"

To read her new book, which was designed to be complementary to her "Autobiography," is rather like taking a walk with a cricket which also possesses what Montaigne called "a skipping wit."

Most of it was written more than two years ago, and why it has been left unrevised is not explained. In these pages a Socialist Government is still in office and the "Life" of Lord Oxford is still unpublished. This is a serious and unnecessary blemish. But Lady Oxford is a law unto herself.

Mr. Asquith's Fall.

What she writes is "a contradiction still." It is impartial candour itself where she and hers are not immediately concerned. But in the late Lord Oxford she admits no failing or defect. It is as if she had vowed never to understand the circumstances of his fall, or forgive those who contrived in Shakespearian language—"the deep damnation of his taking off."

"The night before we left 10 Downing-street for Walmer Castle—from which we never returned to No. 10—I went after undressing to my husband's bed-room, and sat on the arm of his chair. I found him reading his Bible, while I was leaning over his shoulder he pointed to the text in Luke (c. xxii, v. 61). "Before the cock crow thou shalt deny me thrice."

That anecdote illustrates the settled conviction of the Asquiths towards the events of December, 1916—they felt that they had been basely and foully betrayed. The possibility that the highest interests of the country required the supersession of Mr. Asquith is still rejected with scorn.

Nevertheless, it is now generally accepted that Lord Oxford, for all his splendid gifts, was not a great War Minister, because he lacked the necessary qualities of resourcefulness, decision, and drive. That does not prevent Lady Oxford from de-clarating that these very qualities were pre-eminently his:

"Were I asked to-day what was the chief characteristic of my husband I could not say that he was a man of letters, science or philosophy. I would say that he was essentially a man of action, as he never at any moment feared taking decisions, nor was he de-flected from his purpose by public opinion or the Press."

Lansdowne Letter.

On that the obvious comment is that his most frequent decision during the Home Rule controversy, was to postpone decision until it was too late. Asquith's most absorbing pre-occupation was to keep his divided Cabinet from splitting, and the public interest suffered deeply all the time.

One astonishing inaccuracy of Lady Oxford's must be corrected. She says, in connection with Lord Lansdowne's famous Peace by Negotiation Letter to The Daily Telegraph of Nov. 30, 1917:

"Had my husband been in Downing-street, instead of Mr. Lloyd George, it would have received our profound consideration."

Is not Lady Oxford aware that the Cabinet Memorandum of which that letter was, in effect, a brief summary had been submitted by Lord Lansdowne in 1916, before Mr. Asquith left office, and that he took no notice of its arguments and conclusions, though he had himself invited the expression of his colleagues' views?

Mr. Lloyd George.

The further statement that "it was while my husband was still in Downing-street that the Germans confessed themselves beaten and made their first peace proposals" will not bear examination. The Germans in the autumn of 1916 believed themselves to be winning along the line. Their peace-proposals were those of a victor determined not to negotiate, but to dictate.

Lady Oxford suggests rather than states outright that she had always suspected Mr. Lloyd George's "loyalty" to her husband. That was "the only subject," she says, "in all our married life upon which my husband and I were reserved, tactful, and silent." She acquits him of deliberate intention to hit below the belt, but adds that "he never perceived a belt"—which perhaps is more scathing still.

Bonar Law, it seems, had often warned her that "the little man next door will jockey us all in turn," but Lady Oxford disdained Bonar Law because of his "inferiority complex," while Curzon had assured her that there was not one Conservative Minister who would prefer Lloyd George's Premiership to her husband's. Asquith himself was convinced to such a proposition.

How easy is self-deception! Balfour accepted the change-over without a murmur, and went blithely to the Foreign Office from the Admiralty.

Men of Ambition.

There is still controversy as to the unwritten message which Bonar Law conveyed to Asquith from the meeting of the Conservative chiefs. Lady Oxford characterises Bonar Law as one of the four most ambitious men she has ever known.

Few would guess the other three in Lady Oxford's quartet. They are Lord Rosebery, Lord Reading, and Lord Balfour. And yet Lady Oxford has known the Marquess Curzon, the late Lord Birkenhead, and Mr. Winston Churchill! Her character sketch of the first of these makes one of the best chapters of the book, and the depth of her "love" for "George" is shown by the vigour of her chastening hand. It is a merciless portrait.

She says of Curzon that he had "appearance without looks," and "many qualities but little quality." Yet she admits that there were few in whose society she found greater pleasure.

Lord Oxford, we are told, held Curzon's political judgment in small esteem, though he liked him personally. "What was original about him," says Lady Oxford, "was his temperament, his belief in himself, his love of ascendancy, and his extravagant delight in hospitality, ceremony, and display." Yet he would "haggle over a sixpence; he thought it grand to be rude to servants," and he had "no interest in common folk." Such traits indicate not a stain upon the marble, but a flaw within it.

Older and better than ever

Never was your White Horse as good or as old as it is to-day. Years ago, exceptionally heavy stocks of the finest whiskies were laid down to anticipate sales which the quality would justify. These stocks are now fully matured. The result is that WHITE HORSE is now older and better than ever before, excellent as it was in 1932 and preceding years. This advance in quality and age will be maintained. White Horse is now the equivalent of a fine liquor.

LADY OXFORD'S MEMORIES

A Statesman's Pose.

It is curious how continually throughout this book Lady Oxford indicates her rooted contempt for the Press. She derides its influence in peace, while in war it can do "little good, but infinite harm. From vanity or malice it can publish Cabinet secrets, &c., &c." Yet when Cabinet secrets are revealed Cabinet Ministers must be participants in the crime, and the suppression of truth, on which blundering Ministers set such store, does far more harm than frank publication.

When statesmen affect the pose of never reading the newspapers, or not caring what they say, it is long odds that they are prevaricating. Lady Oxford herself describes how she found Lord Rosebery's table in his sanctum covered with newspapers, carefully marked in blue and red, just before he solemnly assured her that he had the greatest contempt for the Press and never looked at a newspaper. Lord Rosebery used to say the same thing, but he had a highly efficient secretary who diligently read the papers for him, and a lively imagination supplied the rest.

Again, we are told that "with the exception of Mr. Churchill, I have always seen journalism fatal to all literary achievement." Surely that is very severe on Lord Morley, and the compliment to Mr. Churchill is a little spoiled by the cynical advice not to "waste his time on politics, as his lack of conviction will always prevent him from being either a good leader or a good follower."

Hasty Judgments.

Lady Oxford's sparkling criticisms are always interesting, because so neatly and confidently expressed. But they are often staggering. I take two at random:

"In the whole of Lord Balfour's published works you will not find a trace of obscurity, affectation or journalism." (Has she forgotten the "Notes on Insular Free Trade" and her husband's pungent comments thereon?)

"With the exception of my husband, I have never observed a sign of disinterested emotion on the part of any of the ten Prime Ministers I have known."

If that be so, then all the emotional appeals of the other nine, from Mr. Gladstone to Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, on a thousand platforms wet with tears, were based on self-interest and hollow shams.

I do not think so meanly of our Prime Ministers as that. But neither, I am sure, does Lady Oxford. It is the full tide of her own swelling emotion which makes her impatient with the feeble tickle she sees in others.

The last chapter in which she flims herself for posterity, makes it easy to forgive the far too sweeping and hasty judgments which mar the truth of her brilliant characterisation. She is a master of human analysis, but her best study is that of her own heart and mind, which leaves her readers wondering, admiring and guessing still.

Dr. G. H. Thomas, medical officer of the G. C. H., informed the Sunday Herald yesterday that they were unable to determine whether the bite was poisonous or not. The wound, however, was treated as poisonous and the patient is now feeling comfortable.

SECOND DIVISION.

Club Rout Kowloon By 5 Goals To 1.

BELL AND FISHER SHINE.

Kowloon offered little opposition to the Hong Kong Club yesterday when the visitors earned a well-deserved victory by 5 goals to 1. From the commencement of the game the Club had everything their own way. Bell scored the first goal after seven minutes play when he converted a fine pass by Fisher. Bell was undoubtedly the star player on the field, while his partner, Fisher, was also very good.

Duncan, the Club's centre forward played a good game, he scored the second goal of the game just before half-time when he rushed Videro and the ball into the net. Duncan (2), Bell Fisher and Williamson scored for the Club and Lewis for Kowloon.

Kowloon: Videro; Everest, J. A. Webb; Webb, Timberlake, Tillery; Whitehead, Lewis, Dunfield, G. Winch, P. White.

Club:—Farrow; Radcliff, Boyd; McKel, Dunhill, Gambler, Fisher, Bell, Duncan, Williamson and Sloane.

Tate Riddles Artillery Defence.

DEACON HAS BAD LUCK.

At Sookunpoo yesterday the Lincolns proved too strong for the Artillery and won easily by 7 goals to 2.

The Lincolns were superior in all departments, the big weakness in the Artillery side being the halves who could not hold the fast Lincolns forwards.

Clayton opened the scoring with a good shot from the wing and after good work by Toyno, Tate added another. Near the interval Clayton scored again when the ball rebounded into play after hitting the inside of the post.

The Artillery opened the second half with a goal through Snooks and were then awarded a penalty which was converted by Gibbons. Duncan made a good save from Leach, but the kick was ordered to be re-taken.

The Lincolns then took complete control and scored further goals at will, Chapman netting with a good ground shot and Tate registering the 'hat trick'.

Lincolns:—Deacon; Coleclough, Edmundson; Maughan, Worrall, Robson; Clayton, Chapman, Tate, McGuinness and Toyno.

Artillery:—Wood; Gibbons, Price; Hunt, Worthington, Stevens; Snooks, Edmunds, Birmingham, Leach and Hill.

Young Indians Surprise The Navy.

FIRST LEAGUE TRIUMPH.

The sensation of the day was provided by the Young Indians, who defeated a strong Navy eleven by 4 goals to 2 at Caroline Hill.

The Navy began by taking matters easily, and the Indians by quick tackling and combined forward play kept the Navy men on the run throughout game.

The Navy opened the scoring when Clarke crossed well for Chappell to net from close in. The Indians equalised after a good forward movement through Hamot, and took the lead when Yusuf ran in to meet a centre from the left.

The Navy opened the second half well, Chappell running through to score a fine goal, but after ten minutes Yusuf scored after Leach had saved from Omar. Near the end Hamot put the issue beyond doubt when he scored after Omar had made a fine opening.

Navy:—Leach; Thompson, Waggott; White, Allport, Bright; Clarke, Redmond, Chappell, Sargent and McBridge.

Young Indians:—Ramsam; Dean, O. M. Omar; Razack, Hussain, Markar; Yusuf, Hamot, A. M. Omar, Azim and Azeeli.

Borderers Overwhelm Champions.

INSIDE TRIO RATTLE ATHLETIC.

The Athletic, the Champions, proved no match for the powerful Borderers team, who started at a strong pace to keep the Athletic defenders busy throughout the game.

The Athletic were at a great disadvantage as regards weight and height, and it was this that proved the match winning factor, the lighter players being unceremoniously bundled off the ball to give the Borderers victory by 6 goals to 1.

Porter was in great form for the winners, scoring twice. Ever ready to shoot he led the forward line well. Morris (2) and Marshall, who were able supporters, netted the remaining three goals.

Play was confined mainly to the Athletic territory throughout the game, and except for an occasional breakaway, the Athletic were on the defensive. Chan Yim-chuen scored for the champions.

Athletic:—Li Lo-chuen; Lau Tai-so, Chau Lim-chuen; Ng Tak-wing, Wong Wing-lim, Lo Lo-ching; Ho Yau-lin, Chan Yim-chuen, Cheung Yip-lai, Pang Kam-heng and Kwok Yung-wing.

Borderers:—William; Jenkins, Suter; Dowling, Court, Hayes; Johns, Marshall, Fourty, Morris and Mathias.

Third Division.

ENGINEERS AND RADIO DRAW

At Happy Valley the Engineers and the Radio shared four goals, Hollingsworth and Whiting scoring for the Engineers, and Aycock and Hamill for the Radio.

Borderers Score Eight

The University's goal average received another shaking yesterday when the Borderers emerged victors by 8 goals to 1. Morgan (2), Nelson (3), Purcell (2) and Solias netted for the winners, and Gorachenko scored the University's solitary point.

Lincolns Beat S. China

At Chatham Road the Lincolns beat South China by 2 goals to 1. Clarke and Porter scored for the winners, and Tang Yan-sheung replied for South China.

Service Corps Beat R.A.F.

The Royal Army Service Corps beat the Royal Air Force by two clear goals at Chatham Road. Jeffries and Halford were the scorers.

Recreio Win By 6 To 5

At King's Park a ding-dong battle resulted in the Recreio beating the Royal Army Medical Corps by 6 goals to 5. Campos (2), Bothelo (3), and Aquino (1) scored for the Recreio, and Pool (3), King, and Gully for the Medical.

'ASPRO'

SAFEGUARD YOUR HEART & HEALTH

FALSE ECONOMY with medicine purchasing is a delusion. It is risky, unsafe, perilous and critical. In the interests of health it is essential to shun impure acetyl salicylic acid preparations. As is well known to medical science, free salicylic acid has an adverse effect on the heart — causes digestive troubles — and other disorders. 'ASPRO' has fulfilled all claims made for it. It is pure, safe, sure and gives certain relief to sufferers and conforms with the standards laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia, the guiding authority of the medical profession.

Read the fifteen principal uses of 'ASPRO' listed below. The reason why such definite claims are made for 'ASPRO' is because 'ASPRO' is both a powerful germicide and an internal antiseptic, and, after ingestion in the system, it is anti-pyretic, anti-periodic, anti-fermentative, antiseptic and a solvent of Uric Acid. Don't endanger your health with impure medicines. 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart nor have any injurious after-effects. Therefore avoid risk by insisting on 'ASPRO'.

For Over 15 Years—The World's Master Medicine

5 MINUTES

FOR RELIEF WITH 'ASPRO'

There is nothing indefinite about ASPRO. Its service is QUICK, safe, effective and definite. It gives you relief in 5 to 10 minutes and then goes on to dispel or dissolve the cause of the pain, allowing Nature to effect its own cure. Furthermore, you get no harmful after-effects from 'ASPRO'. It is speedily eliminated from the system a few hours after being taken. It neither dopes, deadens nor drugs.

Before You Leave Home Don't Forget Your 'ASPRO'

You leave home as "at as a fiddle" but never know the moment when fate will prove unkind in the form of a headache—neuralgia or nerve pains, or maybe it will be a rheumatic attack. The slightest derangement of your nervous system may make you feel "nervy" or irritable. The sight of an accident may upset you for the day. In crowds germ contamination may place you in the quick grip of a cold or influenza. The best protection or such emergency is to make certain that you put a few 'ASPRO' tablets in your pocket or purse BEFORE YOU LEAVE HOME.

What 'Aspro' Does:

- 1 It Stops Violent Headaches in 5 to 10 minutes.
- 2 It Brings Sweet Sleep to the Sleepless.
- 3 It Relieves Rheumatism in one night.
- 4 It Relieves Children's Growing Pains.
- 5 It Saves many a Sound Tooth by Removing Toothache.
- 6 It Brings Relief without causing sickness, indigestion or a craving.
- 7 It Stops Pain without harming the Heart.
- 8 It soothes away Irritability.
- 9 A hot lemon drink with 2 or 3 'ASPRO' Tablets will smush up a Cold or Flu attack in one night.
- 10 It Reduces Temperature in 5 minutes.
- 11 It can be taken at any time, in Train, Train, at Home, at Business—anywhere—everywhere.
- 12 It gives the greatest relief ever known to women at their times of periodical depression.
- 13 It Stops the Ill After-Effects of Alcohol.
- 14 It relieves Dengue and Malaria by reducing the fever.
- 15 As a Gargle, 'ASPRO' is wonderful for Sore Throats, Tonsillitis, etc.

ASPRO is Woman's Best Friend

Possibly the greatest users of 'ASPRO' are women, for whom 'ASPRO' has a special charm on account of the varied periodical experiences with which all women are familiar. They surely know just what a wonderful soother and pain dispeller 'ASPRO' is. Millions of women throughout the World now regularly take 'ASPRO' the safe, sure and effective medicine to relieve their pain and accompanying physical depression who before had to resort to dangerous drugs, narcotics or opiates. The understanding woman uses 'ASPRO'.

Chicago—An innovation in pari-mutuel wagering will be introduced at Hawthorne during the August meeting. It was announced today by General Manager Joseph A. Murphy.

It is the $1 across the board wager, recently tried in Canada, where it is proving highly successful. Most tracks now have a combination ticket in their mutual system, but it calls for $2 bets across the board, or a total of $6. Hawthorne reduces the total to half that sum.

This is not a movement toward dollar mutuels, in that a better mutuel wager $3. The tickets thus give him $1 to win, $1 to place and the same $1 show.

Luton Town are giving a trial to Joseph Romie, a left-back, and brother of the inside forward of that name, F. Holbeach, of Grantham, and H. Wright, of Cambridge, both wingers.

THE TIGER OF TIBET

comfort of the meanest of his guests." Then he turned and addressed one of the lamas: "I think it will do the old Englishman and his proud daughter good to see how we play and amuse ourselves. I will fetch them."

Geoffrey had imagined that his cup of horrors was full to overflowing, but at the Tibetan's words he knew that the scariest ordeal of all was yet to follow. There could be no mistaking the fiend's meaning. Phyllis and her father were to be fetched to be made spectators of the awful sufferings of the "Tiger's" victims.

There are few tortures more acute than those which prey on the mind, and madness is the usual result. Geoffrey knew that the Tibetans were experts in the art of dealing with educated and highly-strung temperaments, which could be made to suffer as much, if not more, by inference than by actual bodily hurt. An English girl, for instance, would die almost at once were physical torture applied, but she might live through years of horror if subjected to a long and drawn-out series of ghastly spectacles. This was obviously the man's intention, and Geoffrey was filled with a fury such as he had never known before.

He fought with his bonds, rage giving him an almost super-human strength. His guards were confident of his safety and had relaxed their vigilance, with the result that Geoffrey had managed to get his back against the wall, and so could struggle without attracting undue attention. His fingers roamed across the surface behind him, and to his delight he found a projecting stone. It was neither very large nor sharp, but still it provided him with an occupation. No longer did he feel hopelessly impotent. He saved his hands up and down as fast as he could. The ropes which bound him were the common ones of the country and he knew them well—loosely-plaited yak's hair, very strong but not too difficult to cut, as it was coarse in fibre. The three lamas were chatting together as if oblivious of his existence. They apparently considered him as incapable of escaping. Probably they were accustomed to dealing with pilgrim prisoners, and had they known that the man in their power was the very person whose death or capture had been the object of the expedition which their chief had sent out a fortnight before, and the remnants of which were now writhing in agony on the stakes in the centre of the courtyard, it is certain that they would have behaved in a very different manner. Geoffrey had little fear of them; the Tibetan who had just left was the real danger, and he worked like a madman in order to free himself before he should return with Mr. Merriwell and Phyllis. Terror of the unknown, horror of the sights which he had already seen that morning, fury at the intention to bring his loved one as a witness of such a scene; these combined to give him strength beyond his normal. He felt the bonds were loosening. Bracing himself together, he made one stupendous effort, and he suddenly found himself free!

His first idea was to rush at the three lamas, but almost immediately saw the folly of such an attempt. If he was to help Phyllis he must make no move until she arrived, and even as he realised this he heard foot-steps approaching along the passage behind him. A door swung open, and he heard the Tibetan's mocking voice saying in excellent English: "After you, lady and gentleman. You enter the court first while your poor humble servant follows behind. He will then be able to help you

Greater Safety In Night Driving

New Sodium Road Lamp Adopted In U.S.

An orange-yellow glow lights the way for motorists over a half mile of road near Schenectady, where the newly developed sodium vapour lamp was recently given its American premiere for highway illumination. After a few days of experimentation the lights are now permanently in use.

This latest development in road lighting comes at a time when safety authorities, highway engineers and motor vehicle officials are devoting considerable attention to the problem of illuminating highways as a safeguard against night accidents.

The sodium light is monochromatic or of one colour, while daylight has many colours. The single colour quality of the lamps is held to be advantageous for road lighting, particularly in revealing objects at low intensities.

Again, the sodium light falls in a region near the maximum sensitivity of the eye; how far this visual sharpness aids in night driving is to be determined by a series of experiments. Less glare is said to result from the new-type lamps.

should you wish to turn back when you behold how kindly we treat some of the weaker vessels among us."

Geoffrey held his hands behind his back as if they were still bound, and turned as Mr. Merriwell and Phyllis stepped into the courtyard not a dozen feet from him!

PERMANENT JACKS FOR LOW CARS

There has recently been produced a car jack in the form of a semi-circular log which is pivoted behind the axle. At need the too or free end is let down to rest on the ground, whereupon the car, driven a few inches in reverse, rides up on to the foot and lifts the wheel clear. A car fitted with four of these jacks, was shown, the driver raising in turn all four wheels without getting out of his seat. It is known as the A. R. Jacking system and it is light and cheap.

What a really fine actress this Edna May Oliver is—an actress and a comedienne if you care to differentiate. Her name on a picture always stamps it sterling. And once again the guarantee, as always, is exceeded. Her new picture "The Penguin Pool Murder"—and it is here by all rules of the theatre—is the correct reason for attending the Central Theatre.

"The Penguin Pool Murder", produced by RKO Radio Pictures, is serious drama, a brilliantly conceived mystery plot and a laugh-packed comedy in one unit. The story concerns a husband murdered in the New York Aquarium, where he has discovered his wife and her lover, and his body deposited in the penguin tank. The superintendent of the aquarium becomes involved as a suspect, as does a pickpocket present at the crime. The intriguing mystery is finally solved by a spinster school teacher, played by Miss Oliver, who by sheer force of will and reasoning, compels James Gleason of the New York Homicide Squad to accept her as a working partner.

Gleason, as Inspector Piper, is a perfect foil for Miss Oliver's brilliant humor. Robert Armstrong gives a splendid performance as a lawyer. Donald Cook, as the lover, is as convincing as he always is in such roles, and Mae Clarke celebrates her screen return following an illness by contributing a fine performance as the wife. Also prominent in the cast is Clarence H. Wilson, as the aquarium superintendent, whose role of sheriff in "The Front Page" remains unforgettable to moviegoers.

"The Penguin Pool Murder" was directed by George Archainbaud from the story of Stuart Palmer, and a screen play by Willis Goldbeck.
